

Contents

Acknowledgments	v
Preface	ix
Foreword: Harold P. Blum	xi
Introduction: Arthur A. Lynch	xv
Section I—Loneliness, Creativity and the Artists	1
1. “A voice comes to one in the dark. Imagine.”: Samuel Beckett’s Search for Company—Lois Oppenheim	3
2. Artists’ Solitude and the Creative Process—Danielle Knafo	15
3. The Skin I Live In—Arlene K. Richards	37
4. Forms and Transformations of Loneliness—Jeffrey Stern	49
Section II—The Clinical Dimensions of Loneliness	67
Shades of Loneliness: Psychological and Social Perspectives —Lucille Spira	71
6. “Object Clarification” in the Treatment of Lonely Heterosexual Men—Jerome S. Blackman	85
7. Exploring the Emergent Experience of Loneliness in Two Men During Their Psychoanalytic Journey —Anita Weinreb Katz	105
8. The Complex Nature of Loneliness—Arthur A. Lynch	123
9. Witnessing: Its Essentialness in Psychoanalytic Treatment —Jenny Kahn Kaufmann and Peter Kaufmann	139
Section III—Loneliness/Solitude in the Psychoanalytic Training Process	159
10. The Loneliness of the Candidate: Solitude and Solicited Identifications—Jamieson Webster	161
11. Loneliness and Solitude in the Psychoanalytic Training Process—From the Chair of the Supervising Analyst —Douglas H. Ingram	181
12. The Loneliness of the Training Analyst—Eric Mendelsohn	195
13. There Is No Place Like Home—Sandra Buechler	211
Section IV—In Life Events	221
14. Loneliness and The Life Cycle—Brent Willock	225
15. Marilyn Monroe, the Loneliest Person on Earth —Alma Halbert Bond	241

16. The Death of the Loved Spouse, the Inner World of Grief: A Psychoanalytic Developmental Perspective—Patsy Turrini	253
17. A Soldier's Loneliness—Amit Goldenberg and Nathan Szajnberg	271
Section V—Conclusion
18. Death is the God of Loneliness—Richard Gottlieb	287
Cumulative References	307
Contributors	321